Message from Chairwoman of the Executive Council
Known as one of the most renowned institutions of higher learning, Tsinghua University has cultivated numerous outstanding talents over the last 100 years and made its remarkable contributions to our country’s construction and development. The University will usher in its 100th anniversary in 2011, and Tsinghua people share this common aspiration: ushering in another 100 years with a new look and a new atmosphere so as to realize a great objective of building Tsinghua into a world-class university.

In recent years our government has increased its input into institutions of higher learning and the latter’s basic conditions for their construction have gradually improved. But due to the lack of enough funds these institutions could not fulfill their task as expected. Therefore, it has become an inevitable trend for them to raise funds through various channels for the sake of their further development. For a long time, overseas and domestic enterprises, friendly personalities from all walks of life and alumni of Tsinghua University have made generous donations to our university and rendered support for many areas such as teaching and scientific researching, bringing in talents from abroad and promoting exchanges with foreign counterparts, helping with our campus’ infrastructural construction, student grants and scholarships as well as student activities, and therefore they have made due contributions to and played an important role in making our university a cradle for cultivating top-graded talents and an incubation base for establishing important research centers of science and technology and reaping scientific and technological fruits.

2008 was a most unusual year for China: after the disastrous snow storm came the heartbreaking Wenchuan earthquake. It was the very year that the Chinese nation fulfilled their 100-year dream of holding the Olympic Games and the enthusiastic Chinese people succeeded in making their Beijing Olympics “a unique grand gathering”. It was the very year that the Chinese government declared to the world “China’s confidence” in taking stimulating actions while the financial tsunami was sweeping across the globe. It was the very year that with the concern and support from different walks of life, our foundation’s work made fresh progress and the total amount of donations exceeded RMB 300 million yuan for the first time and its proceeds reached a relatively good level. The unchanging support by insightful personalities of various circles at home and abroad has not only provided a favorable environment for our students to study better and become useful members of society, but also played an active role in pushing ahead our university’s work in different areas. On behalf of Tsinghua University Education Foundation, I would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to the organizations and friends from all walks of life who have supported and helped us.

The financial aid provided by our Foundation covers many areas such as teaching, scientific research and infrastructural construction, which is managed in the form of projects. Based on the distinctive features of our university’s teaching and scientific research as well as our foundation’s working experience accumulated over the years, we will adopt various forms to raise funds at a bigger scale so as to invest the foundation’s limited resources more effectively into our university’s teaching and research work, and encourage our students to cultivate their mind, well-prepare for their future work, study assiduously and do their bit for China’s construction in the days ahead. In the name of Tsinghua University Education Foundation, I would like now to make a solemn promise to our society: We will take high value of every donation, take good care of and make better use of all the donations so that we can repay our society with the good achievements made in our work. As a bridge linking donors and our university, Tsinghua University Education Foundation will make bigger contributions to the development of China’s teaching and scientific cause by means of exchanging information, managing donation projects better and extensively absorbing social resources.

Execution of Donation Projects
Separate Items for Providing Relief to the Quake-Affected Students

In the wake of May 12 Wenchuan earthquake, in support of the university, the education foundation gave at the primary time its concern and help to Tsinghua students from the quake affected areas, took an active part in contacting those entrepreneurs who were concerned about public welfare and education and raised funds for reconstruction work in the quake-affected areas.

- After an urgent discussion in the wake of the quake, the foundation leadership raised RMB470,000 yuan to subsidize Tsinghua’s 152 students who came from the quake-affected areas.
- Rili Huacheng Company contacted Tsinghua right after the quake and donated 1 million yen as subsidies to the university’s aforesaid students.

Scholarships, Grants and Student-Encouraging Funds

Of the financially-aided projects of Tsinghua University Education Foundation, one-third is scholarships, grants and student encouraging funds donated by the university’s alumni and personalities from different walks of life. The Education foundation, the Alumni Association and the university’s office in charge of scholarships and grants jointly supervise and select the aforesaid funds in the wake of individual students’ application, primary selection conducted in different classes and grades as well as examination and selection by schools and departments. All the candidates for primary selection applying for the aforesaid funds are made public in the university and open debates are conducted about offering some scholarships and grants so as to ensure openness, fairness and democracy at different phases of selection.

1. Awarding the Good Students, Help the Students in Financial Difficulty and Ensure Students Work Hard and Become All-Rounders

The establishment of scholarships aims at encouraging students to study diligently, acquire all-round development and bring their strong points and creative abilities into full play so as to realize the university’s objective of cultivating top-graded and diversified talents with good qualities and creativeness.

The establishment of grants aims at showing the concern of the state and all walks of life for the poor students and helps them pay some of their basic fees for life and study while learning in the university so as to ensure that some of them will not drop out from school because of financial difficulties.

Student-encouraging funds donated by Tsinghua alumni promote the idea “Help the poor students and encourage them to study hard, love their university and cultivate talents”. They are used exclusively as financial aid to Tsinghua’s poor students confirmed by the university authorities and help financial-aided students experience the spiritual encouragement from the university’s alumni and personalities from different walks of life. Therefore they serve as a direct channel for the university’s alumni to support and participate in their alma mater’s talent training cause. Therefore, these funds give full expression to the alumni’ affection for Tsinghua, and with the joint efforts of the alumni association and the education foundation, the projects of this kind have won the active support from Tsinghua alumni at home and abroad. Such funds raised in 2008 amounted to RMB 13.70 million yuan.

2. Main Projects of Scholarships, Grants and Student Encouraging Funds

“December 9” Scholarship

This scholarship was established with the donation from Mr. Zhang Zongzhi, a Japanese entrepreneur of Chinese origin. Being a fellow townsman of He Fengyuan and Jiang Nanxiang, Mr. Zhang studied in Tsinghua between 1932 and 1935 and happened to be a dormitory mate of the aforesaid two students. He was put in prison because he had participated in the “December 9” movement of patriotic students. After the victory of the anti-Japanese war, Zhang first went to London and then to Japan to settle down there. He was engaged in the people-to-people trade and passed away in Japan in 2004.

Though he lived overseas for a long time, Mr. Zhang always missed his motherland, hoping China would become prosperous and strong and improve its scientific and educational standard. He donated to Tsinghua all the savings he had accumulated in his lifetime to set up this scholarship and proposed to name it “December 9” Scholarship, in the hope that young students would have better conditions for study and work hard by making use of what they have learned in the university for the prosperity of our motherland and the rejuvenation of the Chinese nation.
Establishment of Jiang Nanxiang Scholarship in 1989 is in memory of Comrade Jiang Nanxiang, former party secretary and president of Tsinghua, who passed away in 1988. Honest and upright throughout his lifetime, Jiang left a meager legacy of RMB 40,000 yuan when he died. His children donated part of the legacy to Tsinghua, and together with RMB 50,000 yuan donated by Alumnus Xu Ruihong, “Jiang Nanxiang Scholarship” was set up to pay tribute to Comrade Jiang Nanxiang and encourage Tsinghua students to work for all-round development of moral, intellectual and physical education. In 2005, Tsinghua Yuan’s Architecture and Designing Co. Ltd continued to donate RMB 100,000 yuan every year to this scholarship for another 10 years.

Scholarship for Love of Reading
To encourage Tsinghua’s poor students to study hard and work for their motherland as useful successors, Mme Yang Jiang decided in 2001 to donate to her alma mater the contribution fees for publishing Qian Zhongshu’s works and hers starting from that year to set up “Scholarship for Love of Reading”. Mme Yang Jiang said, “On behalf of three persons—myself, my late husband Qian Zhongshu and late daughter Qian Yuan, I donate to my alma mater. It is the common aspiration of our family of three persons to establish ‘Love of Reading’ scholarship. When Qian Zhongshu was seriously ill in 1995, I and Qian Yuan went to visit him at his sickbed in the hospital. After discussion, we all agreed that we would donate a scholarship if we have money and name it ‘Scholarship for Love of Reading’ without using our own names”.

With its principal retained, this scholarship’s annual interest is used for helping those poor hard-working students. Thanks to the continued increase of its principal, the scholarship is now close to RMB 5.46 million yuan.
Chung Ying Tang Scholarship for Moral Education

After his death, his relatives decided to donate Hong Kong $ more than 1 million—all the money given to his bereaved family by his friends and kinfolks—to Tsinghua to set up a scholarship cum grant so that Wu’s last wish to do good for his homeland and guide and help young people will be realized. The university authorities decided after consulting Ma Lanfang—wife of Dr Wu to set up “Scholarship-Grant in Memory of Dr Wu Shunde” as a fund with its principal retained, whose annual interest would be used for awarding and giving financial aid to outstanding students of the university’s school of public management.

Every year there are 200 poor but academically bright Tsinghua undergraduates good in character and scholarship who have been awarded with the aforesaid scholarship-grant.

Research Fund

Yuyuan Medical Research Fund

In 2002, Yuyuan (Industrial) Group signed an agreement with Tsinghua University to donate $20 million in support of the university’s construction, of which sum $8 million would be used for building Tsinghua’s 6th Classroom Building and $12 million for establishing “Tsinghua-Yuyuan Medical Research Fund” in support of launching scientific research projects with prospects for application in the areas of medical care and pharmaceuticals. Of the research fund, $6 million would be used for building “Tsinghua-Yuyuan Medical Science Research Center” Building and the other $6 million for giving financial aid to launching research projects in the areas of medical science and life science.

Both the aforesaid two buildings have been now completed and put into use. Tsinghua has respectively founded an apparent hereditary science and cancer research institute, an immunity research institute, a biological chip research center, a pharmaceutical research institute, a nuero-engineering research institute, a biological medicine information research institute, a cardiovascular research institute, a cranial nerve disease research institute, a medical physics and engineering research institute, a traditional Chinese medicine modernization center and a biological medicine engineering research institute. At present, project research is in full swing, and initial results achieved by many professors in their research work have been published in the well-known international journals.

Nanometer Research Center Fund

To support Tsinghua University in carrying out its work in the field of nano-science, Mr Guo Taiming of Hongfujin Precision Industrial (Shenzhen) Co. Ltd signed an agreement with the university, promising to donate RMB 300 million for the building and operation of Tsinghua-Fushikang Nanometer Scientific-Tech Center. All the construction and operation expenses for this center would be donated by the aforesaid company and its subordinate enterprises.

In May 2003, the building of the aforesaid center was completed and went into operation, whose investment totaled RMB 81.66 million yuan, providing Tsinghua with an advanced and open environment that integrates manufacture, storage, tests, research and development of nanometer materials and components with the functions like academic exchanges. Guo’s company also donated some funds every year as the center’s expenses for daily operations and purchase of facilities.

Development Fund of the Advanced Research Center

Established in June 1997, Tsinghua’s Advanced Research Center aims at training for China a group of key researchers of basic sciences. Its honorary director is Mr Chen-Ning Franklin Yang-a Nobel laureate and a well-known scientist of Chinese origin, and its director is Prof, Nie Huatong-another famous scientist of Chinese origin.

The center’s establishment has enjoyed kind concern from the Party and state leaders such as Hu Jintao, Jiang Zemin, Wen Jiabao, Li Lanqing and Zeng Qinghong, and won great support from Tsinghua’s leadership like Wang Dazhong, He Meiying, Gu Binglin and Chen Xi.
With its hardware conditions supported by Tsinghua, the center set up a foundation in Hong Kong in order to raise funds for conducting its daily operation and hiring research personnel at home and abroad. It also transferred part of the donations it had collected to set up “Development Fund of the Advanced Research Center” under Tsinghua University Education Foundation. Thanks to the generous support from friends such as Cha Chi Ming, Cha Mou Sing Payson, William Mong Man-wai, Jonathan Choi Koon-shum, Huang Jibe, Dunson K. Cheng, James and Marilyn Simons, Lee Quo-wei, Lin chia-chiao, Lin chia-chiao, Nie Yaoping, Tso Sek Kwong, David W.K. Sin, Benedict Sin Nga-yan and Chen-Ning Franklin Yang as well as Software’s Asia Research institute, the center has got financial support totaling nearly RMB 10 million yuan over recent years, made remarkable achievements in academic exchange and talent training. As a result, it enjoys growing international influence.

Kuang Piu Chao Fund for High-Tech Development

In 1996, Mr Kuang Piu Chao from Hong Kong donated Hong Kong $ 10 million to Tsinghua University Education Foundation to set up “Mr Kuang Piu Chao Fund for High-Tech Development”. With its principal retained, the fund’s annual interest is used for both supporting Tsinghua’s research into advanced scientific and technological subjects and awarding those teachers who have scored remarkable achievements in teaching and scientific research. Up to now this fund has been awarded to 151 outstanding teachers at the forefront of teaching and scientific researching and played a very important part in encouraging teachers to love their job and devote themselves to teaching. By 2008, Tsinghua’s application for 29 foreign-related patent projects has been supported by the fund.

Talent Fund

In 2008, the Foundation invested RMB 100 million yuan to set up “Talent Fund”, in support of Tsinghua’s building its contingent of teachers, which is a strong backing for the execution of the university’s talent strategy and provides support for “methods for executing the plan of building Tsinghua’s top-level talent contingent” (No. 221 plan) and “measures for carrying out the work of introducing and engaging young talents from top-level academic organizations into some of Tsinghua’s schools and departments”. Thanks to the implementation of Tsinghua’s measures such as “Talent Fund”, annual salary based on agreement and special subsidies, their beneficiaries are over 30 top-level talents, including more than 10 outstanding talents introduced from abroad such as Shi Yigong, Wang Lijun, Song Yonghua and Wei Jie, important young teachers belonging to the experimental system of “Tenure-Track” and some young and middle-aged academic forerunners. The establishment of this fund has not only supported talent training and improve Tsinghua’s competitiveness, but also stepped up the reform of wage system and innovative personnel administration, promoted the building of Tsinghua’s top-level talent contingent and advanced academic groups and played an important role in building Tsinghua into a world-class university. According to the execution of China’s “1000 – person plan” in 2008, important state disciplines and laboratories would introduce 500 top-level talents at home and abroad in 5 to 10 years. As China’s important university, Tsinghua would work harder to introduce talents in response to our state policy and the support from our sustainable and stable talent fund would play a strong role in ensuring talent introduction.
